

Machin's Pro-Competition baits set to hit the shelves

Bag 'Em Baits has launched an exciting and comprehensive new range of Pro-Competition hookbaits and groundbaits.

Designed in conjunction with Fish O'Mania and Parkdean Masters winner Neil Machin, all the new products have been subjected to extensive field trials by the experienced and highly knowledgeable Bag 'Em team, which includes current Kamasan champion Adam Richards.

Developing any new groundbaits and baits can take time and, as Neil explained to Angling Times, the Pro-Competition range has been developed without compromise by match anglers, for match anglers.

"All the groundbait mixes have been designed with the current modern commercial match scene very much in mind," said Neil. "Each one of the six unique new feeds is blended from only the finest high quality fishmeals and pellets, with the unique addition of my own secret attractors.

"Ultra-high fishmeal levels will ensure these groundbaits are the most effective that you can buy. I never use bulking out ingredients such as brown or white breadcrumbs in any of my recipes."

As yet Angling Times has not had the opportunity to put any of the new baits through their paces. However, the new super spicy Red Reaper Groundbait, which contains the brilliant carp attractor Robin Red, looks and smells like a winner, as do the unique Soffit and Tuffit expander hook pellets.

Prices: The groundbait sells for £3.49-£3.99, while the pellets sell for between £2.49 and £3.49

The Pro-Competition groundbait has high levels of fishmeals.